34.—(1) The Department, subject to subregulations 4 and 5, may pay provincial aid to a sanatorium in an amount equal to the standard cost of in-patient service, as determined by the Department, from the annual financial and statistical returns from the sanatoria for the previous year.

(4) The provincial aid as determined by the Department shall be reduced by an amount equal to,—

- (a) the total revenue from the treatment of in-patients, excluded from provincial aid under regulation 32, and

- (b) 50 per centum of the revenue from other in-patients.

(2) Every sanatorium shall do everything necessary to ensure that any baby born in the sanatorium shall not contract tuberculosis or any other infection.

39. The Department may provide and pay an amount not exceeding $12.00 per week for the treatment outside a sanatorium of any patient who,—

- (a) has recovered to such an extent that in the opinion of the Director or an inspector he is fit to be discharged, and
  - (i) is not a resident, or
  - (ii) is a resident of a municipality in a territorial district which, in the opinion of the Minister, would be unduly burdened if required to pay for the treatment.

40.—(1) The Department may pay any medical practitioner, sanatorium clinic or hospital clinic approved by the Director for carrying out pneumothorax treatments.

(2) The amount to be paid shall be $3.00 for each treatment, subject however to an increment to be fixed in accordance with the following table:

(3) Where it is necessary for a medical practitioner to travel for the purpose of giving a treatment, the Director may authorize payment of a travelling allowance of 8 cents per mile each way.

(4) Where the treatment to be given is unusually difficult or complicated, the Deputy Minister may authorize payment at the rate of $5.00 for each treatment.

(5) Where treatments are given in a hospital clinic, the medical practitioner in charge thereof shall inform the Director as to the manner in which payment is to be made to the members of the staff of the clinic who are associated in the treatment.

(6) Where hospital facilities are required in giving pneumothorax treatments, the medical practitioner or clinic giving the treatments shall make any arrangements necessary for the use of the facilities.

(7) Any fee paid for a pneumothorax treatment shall include the remuneration payable for any necessary fluoroscopic examination.

NOMINATIONS TO OFFICE

1.—(1) The deputy head of a department in consultation with the responsible minister shall determine the qualifications and suitability of any person nominated to a position in his department.

(2) The Civil Service Commissioner before an appointment is made shall classify in writing the position to which the nominee is to be appointed, and the salary to be paid.

TYPISTS AND STENOGRAPHERS

2.—(1) The Civil Service Commissioner shall establish and maintain lists of persons eligible for appointment in the various grades of the classes of clerk-typists, clerk-stenographers and secretarial stenographers, and shall conduct tests to determine the relative fitness and ability of candidates to perform the duties of the class to which they seek to be appointed.

(2) No appointment to any class shall be made in any department at the seat of government in Toronto except from those lists.

(3) Appointments shall be made according to the candidates' ratings, and where these are equal, according to the date of application; but preference shall be given to those persons formerly in the employ of the Government who were laid off while in good standing, or who volunteered for duty with the navy, army or air force.

(4) Appointments shall be made for a probationary period of three months.

(5) Before the expiration of that period, the deputy head of a department may reject any person assigned to any position under his control, and the cause of rejection shall be reported to the Civil Service Commissioner.

(6) The Civil Service Commissioner shall decide whether that person shall be struck off the list as unfit for the public service or tried in some other position.

(c) on Saturday during July and August when directed by the Minister presiding over any department.

(2) Those employees may take a recess for refreshment each day except Saturday from 12.30 p.m. to 1.45 p.m. or at such other time between 11.30 a.m. and 2.00 p.m. in special cases or to meet the requirements of the office, as the official in charge, with the approval of the deputy head, may determine.

(3) The deputy heads of departments shall cause all public offices to be kept open during the recess.

ATTENDANCE

4.—(1) Each department shall maintain an attendance register.

(2) Every employee in the public service whose regular duties are discharged in the office in which he is employed except the deputy heads of department and officials of similar standing or any other employee exempted by the Minister presiding over a department shall register in person upon his daily arrival and departure and at the recess on the forms provided for the purpose, which shall be accessible before and up to the time set for his daily arrival, at the time set for his daily departure and at the recess.

(3) An employee who arrives late shall report to the official in charge of the branch or office in which he is employed and shall register the time of arrival.

(4) The register shall not be accessible for recording departures during office hours except for registration where special leave has been obtained from the deputy head of official in charge of the branch, and no employee shall leave the buildings during office hours without obtaining that leave and registering.

(5) Where an employee is habitually irregular in the time of his arrival or absents himself during office hours without leave, a report shall be made by the official in charge to the deputy head, who shall make a monthly report of all such cases to the Civil Service Commissioner.

(6) An employee whose regular duties lie partly inside and partly outside the office shall register in the regular way when employed inside the office.

(7) An employee whose regular duties lie partly or wholly outside the office shall keep a daily record of the time spent in the discharge of his duties and shall submit the record at the end of each week to the official in charge of the branch or office in which he is employed.

ENFORCEMENT OF REGULATIONS

5. The deputy head of a department shall be responsible for keeping the attendance registers in the special branches or offices of his department and for carrying into effect these regulations, and shall send to the Minister and the Civil Service Commissioner on or before the fifteenth of each month a report of the record of attendance for the preceeding month on forms provided for the purpose.

Speech from the Throne

THE HONOURABLE THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR was pleased to open the Second Session of the Twenty-second Legislature on Monday, March 4th last, with the following speech from the throne:

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly:

I wish to extend my best wishes to the Members of this Legislature as you resume your duties at this Second Session of the Twenty-second Legislature of the Province of Ontario.

I feel sure that you would wish me at the outset to pay a tribute on behalf of the people of Ontario to the many public servants who have died since we last met. In particular, may I mention the Honourable G. Howard Ferguson, former Premier of Ontario and later High Commissioner for Canada in London. Throughout a long and vigorous public career, he served his native province, his country and his Empire well. He was always greatly interested in the advancement of education, and at the time of his death he was Chancellor of Western University and also a member of the Board of Governors of the University of Toronto. To Mrs. Ferguson and to the wives and families of those other public servants who gave so much of themselves in the service of this province, I know that you would wish me to express the profound sympathy of the members of this Legislature and all those whom you represent.

When last we met it still seemed likely that there would be a long and bitter struggle in the Pacific, but victory came over the last of the Axis partners with dramatic suddenness when science unlocked the secret power of the atom. But strife and bloodshed still continue in many lands while hunger and famine threaten hundreds of millions of people as the dreadful aftermath of war. The peace is still to be won, but in facing the tasks which lie before us the people of this province, and of all Canada, may well compare conditions here with those throughout most of the rest of the world, and in doing so they will find reasons for confidence that with a spirit of co-operation and good will, this country now enters its greatest period of opportunity.

As you are aware, my government began to urge more than two years ago that a Dominion-Provincial Conference should be called immediately to prepare plans for effective co-operation between all governments in Canada. It was therefore a source of gratification that representatives from all governments in Canada were finally called together on August 6th, 1945, for the purpose of considering new taxing agreements and laying the foundation for joint action in many fields of administrative responsibility. At that meeting a Co-ordinating Committee was appointed. It was composed of the Prime Minister of Canada and the Premiers of each of the nine provinces.

This Co-ordinating Committee subsequently met on November 26th in Ottawa, and after adjournment on November 29th met again on January 28th of this year. On February 1st it adjourned until April 25th next. It is the earnest hope and expectation of my government that a solution of the many inter-governmental problems will be found, and I am assured that substantial progress to that end has already been made. The attitude of my government at this Conference is clearly expressed in the opening words of its submission to the other governments.

"The main purpose of the Dominion-Provincial Conference (1945) is to place the Dominion and the provincial governments in the best possible position to use their combined powers for the most effective advancement of the welfare of the people of Canada and the strength of one national economy. In seeking to attain that objective, our constitutional background must be recognized, and the special considerations which greatly effected the form of constitution under which Canada became a nation must always be borne in mind.

In making its submissions to the Conference, the Government of the Province of Ontario proceeds upon the assumption that the future strength of Canada and the welfare of all its people will depend upon the measure of co-ordination and continuing co-operation which can be established between all governments in Canada and the agencies of those governments. While acknowledging that each provincial government owes its primary responsibility to the people of its own province, we fully recognize the dependence of the people of every province on the strength and vigour of the whole nation for their continuing welfare and prosperity. We are also convinced that the strength of our national structure very largely depends upon the strength, independence, and self-reliance with which each provincial government is able to undertake its own allotted tasks. These principles are stated at the outset so that it may be clearly understood that our proposals are made in the belief that they should be equally acceptable in every part of Canada and are in no instance put forward with the thought of giving any special advantage to those who live in the Province of Ontario."

In those words is to be found a clear expression of the attitude of the Government of Ontario and the manner in which it believes that national unity can best be attained. If that spirit prevails, an effective foundation will be laid for steady and vigorous expansion throughout the whole of Canada.

During the past year, school boards throughout Ontario have enjoyed the advantage of the greatly increased grants which were introduced last spring. This has paved the way for many improvements in existing school arrangements. Those grants have resulted in a very substantial reduction in the local tax levies for school purposes, and have encouraged many boards of trustees to make more adequate provision for education.

The Royal Commission on Education is continuing its important work. Pending the report of the Commission, no further major changes are contemplated. Some important developments, however, have resulted from recent legislative and financial reforms. The movement towards larger administrative school areas has been accelerated, and almost forty per cent of the rural school sections are now included in township school areas. Many county councils are showing keen interest in the re-organization of their high school districts to assure adequate financial support for a diversified program in the secondary schools. The number of high schools offering a modernized course for rural pupils has doubled, and more than forty schools are now providing this important service. Other similar developments are expected within the next few months.

The Provincial Physical Fitness Program which started last year has attracted the active co-operation of over one hundred communities. The Adult Education Board has now secured a full staff. It is establishing new programs and co-ordinating the activities of existing agencies. The Guidance Branch and the Physical and Health Education Branch have both been expanded to meet the increasing demand for their services. The generosity of a public-spirited ladies' organization has aroused increased interest in Music and Art in the schools by the provision of four scholarships in each field for province-wide competition. Junior kindergartens are appearing in ever-increasing numbers, under the permissive legislation now in effect.

One of the most encouraging aspects of the educational program in Ontario during the past year has been that devoted to the training and education of men and women from the armed services. Rehabilitation training for both men and women has assumed vast proportions. In the ten rehabilitation training centres, administered by the Ontario Department of Education, approximately 11,000 veterans are now in training. In the universities and colleges of the province, more than 8,000 men and women from the armed services are now enrolled. There is also a heavy enrolment of these students in Osgoode Hall, the Ontario College of Art, the School of Design, and the Ontario Mining Institute at Haileybury. The number taking re-establishment training of this kind will increase substantially during the coming year.

Plans are under way for the establishment of further technical institutes and accommodation must be provided for a steady increase in ordinary school enrolment. The supply of qualified teachers is improving but the difficulties of construction still prevent the erection of many urgently needed school buildings.

The period immediately ahead will be devoted to the consolidation of advances already made, and preparation for action upon the report of the Royal Commission when it is submitted.

It is now recognized that vigorous and effective research is an essential part of expanding production in every field. The Ontario Research Foundation played a great part in war research, and since the cessation of hostilities has passed quickly through a period of reconversion. The laboratories and staff have been re-organized and equipped for peacetime investigations. At present forty trained investigators are fully employed. A gratifying feature of the present program of research is the increased demand for long-term research. The existing space is fully occupied and in fact congested. Plans are being prepared for improved and considerably enlarged laboratories to facilitate Ontario's contribution to industrial efficiency and the development of new products.
